

I am outraged that telemarketers might be able to lobby to overturn the NJ Do Not Call List. If they are willing to pay 25% of my monthly basic phone bill, then I would gladly give their concerns consideration, but until then I resent any attempt at invading the sanctity of my home by allowing these annoying and unwanted calls. Read my lips: No new telemarketing calls!